U.S. SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Congress created the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) to help America's entrepreneurs form successful small enterprises. Today, the SBA offers financing, training, and advocacy for small firms. SBA also works with thousands of lending, educational, and training institutions nationwide.

While the SBA does not offer direct loans or grants, it does enable its lending partners to provide financing to small businesses when funding is otherwise unavailable on reasonable terms by guaranteeing major portions of loans made to small businesses.

The eligibility requirements and credit criteria of the program are very broad in order to accommodate a wide range of financing needs. When a small business applies to a lending partner for a loan, the lender reviews the application and decides if it merits a loan on its own or if it requires additional support in the form of an SBA guaranty. SBA backing on the loan is then requested by the lender. In guaranteeing the loan, the SBA assures the lender that, in the event the borrower does not repay the loan, the government will reimburse the lending partner for a portion of its loss.

By providing this guaranty, the SBA is able to help tens of thousands of small businesses every year get financing they would not otherwise obtain. To qualify for an SBA guaranty, a small business must meet the SBA's criteria, and the lender must certify that it could not provide funding on reasonable terms without an SBA guaranty.

SBA Direct is a great way to access SBA programs. Simply type in your business zip code when prompted at SBA Direct | SBA.gov and resources in your area will be displayed.

WOMEN'S BUSINESS CENTERS

This program helps level the playing field for women entrepreneurs by offering comprehensive courses, workshops, conferences and counseling for all stages of creating and growing a small business. There is also a particular focus on providing resources for economically and socially disadvantaged women. Arizona Women's Education & Employment is an invaluable resource for Arizona businesses. By providing well-qualified and highly-motivated employees, AWEE helps businesses improve efficiency and reduce recruiting costs, which are estimated to equal one-third of a new hire's annual salary, according to the U.S. Department of Labor. This represents more than $4,700 in annual savings for a minimum wage worker alone. AWEE places great emphasis on teaching business protocol, communication strategies and other "soft skills" increasingly vital in the workplace. Participants not only receive the necessary work skills and credentials, but also the tools they need to achieve business success. AWEE is also a highly regarded human resources development partner, offering an array of training and motivational seminars that help employees improve their productivity, make better financial decisions, enhance their customer relationship skills and pursue achievable goals for continuing their professional and personal development.
